

VALLAREX CORK FLOATING FLOOR

PRODUCT COMPARISON

Expanko flooring products are designed to exceed all quality standards set by the industry. Expanko offers excellence in the design and manufacturing of our products to insure we offer the best flooring products available.

Product Quality:

Expanko's Vallarex floating floors are made with only the highest quality raw materials. The density of the cork used in Vallarex, which is a factor of how much cork is in each tile, is greater than any other cork flooring product in the market. All materials are hand inspected to verify product quality. Expanko flooring products are carefully packaged to ensure that the product will arrive flat and ready to install.

Factory Finish:

Expanko applies Bona Kemi Traffic water-based matte polyurethane finish. It is designed for and proven to provide durability and easy maintenance for both residential and commercial installations. Other manufacturers offer a standard UV (ultra violet) cured acrylic finish, not a polyurethane finish; acrylic finishes are inferior to polyurethane since they are far less durable and will require re-finishing on a much shorter interval.

Construction:

Vallarex floors come in 12" X 36" planks in 1/2" nominal thickness. The composition of Vallarex flooring has been designed to offer the most stable and best performing cork floating floor available. On the top, we start with a high-density 1/8" thick cork surface, finished with polyurethane. The center of the product is a high-density fiberboard core, made from recycled postproduction waste. The tongue and groove milling is cut into this part of the plank. On the bottom we apply a thick layer of high-density cork, which adds stability as well as superior acoustical properties. Vallarex, a glueless floating floor system, is easy to install when using the proper tools and following our complete installation instructions.

Product Variety:

Vallarex offers six unique decorative patterns in natural cork shades, Light from our Traditional Cork Collection and two beautifully stained rich patterns, Amber and Cordovan.

Vallarex is backed by Expanko's 10-year warranty.

Please contact an authorized Expanko dealer for additional information and customer service. Installation instructions, technical documentation and care and maintenance instructions are available on our website at www.expanko.com.